Deliberations of John Paul II on the Essence of the Church's Social Teaching

The source basis of the article is composed of pope John Paul's II encyclicals – Laborem exercens (1981), Sollicitudo rei socialis (1987), Centesimus annus (1991), Fides et ratio (1998), the Apostle's Letter Tertio Millennio adveniente (1994) as well as the interview with priest cardinal Karol Wojtyła given to Vittorio Possenti on 21st of June 1978 in Mediolan.

I shall separate the following issues: 1) relations of concepts: social teaching of the Church, social doctrine of the Church and catholic social teaching; 2) relation theory – practice from the point of view of social doctrine of the Church; 3) social doctrine of the Church versus ideology; 4) in what sense may we talk about the historicism of social doctrine of the Church?; 5) periodisation of the development of social doctrine of the Church.
